Some Aspects of the Farmers' Problems

By BERNARD M. BARUCH

(Reprinted from Atlantic Monthly)

Now that the farmers are stirring. thinking, and uniting as never before to eradicate these inequalities, they 20 00 are subjected to stern economic bectures, and are met with the accusation that they are demanding, and are the recipients of special privileges. Let us see what privileges the government has conferred on the farmers. Much has been made of Section 6 of the Clayton Anti-Trust Act, which pur perfed to permit them to combine with immunity, under certain conditions, Admitting that, nominally, this exemption was in the nature of a special privilege, - though I think it was so in appearance rather than in fact,-we find that the courts have nullified it by judicial interpretation. Why should not the farmers be permitted to ac-60.87 complish by co-operative methods what other businesses are already doing by re-operation in the form of incorporaby fusion of existing corporations or otherwise, a corporation that controls the cutire production of a commodity, or a large part of it, why is it not proper for a group of farmers to unite for the marketing of their common products, either in one or in several selling agencies? Why should it be right for a hundred thousand corporate *hareholders to direct 25 or 30 or 40 special governmental aid may be necessary in the general interest, we must all agree that it is difficult to see why agriculture and the production and disribution of farm products are not accorded the same opportunities that are provided for other businesses; especially as the enjoyment by the farmer of such opportunities would appear to be even more contributory to the general good than in the case of other industries. The spirit of American democracy is unalterably opposed, alike to enacted special privilege and to the special privilege of unequal op-portunity that arises automatically from the failure to correct glaring economic inequalities. I am opposed to the injection of government into business, but I do believe that it is an essential function of democratic government to equalize opportunity far as it is within its power to do so, whether by the repeal of archaic statutes or the exactment of modern ones. If the anti-trust laws keen the farmers from endeavoring scientifically to integrate their industry while other industries find a way to meet modern conditions without violating such stat. utes, then it would seem reasonable to find a way for the farmers to meet them under the same conditions. law should operate equally in fact. Repairing the economic structure on one side is no injustice to the other side which is in good repair.

We have traveled a long way from the old conception of government us merely a defensive and policing agency; and regulative, corrective or equalizing legislation, which apparently is of a special nature, is often of the most general beneficial consequences. the First Congress passed a fariff act that was avowedly for the protection of manufacturers; but a protective tariff always has been defended as a means of promoting the general good through a particular aspecach; and the statute books are filled with acts for the benefit of shipping, commerce.
